A vibrant, stylized illustration of a young child with dark skin and curly hair, wearing an orange t-shirt and shorts, standing on a sandy beach. The child is seen from behind, looking out towards a bright blue ocean under a clear sky. Numerous birds are flying in the sky, some appearing as simple silhouettes and others with more detail. To the left, a large, leafy tree with a thick trunk frames the scene. In the distance, a small sailboat is visible on the water, and a rocky island or headland is on the horizon. The overall color palette is warm and bright, with a lot of orange, yellow, and blue tones. The style is reminiscent of modern children's book illustrations.

Budi spent time with his dad, learning important things about the sea. His dad showed him how to read the stars and feel the winds. Budi practiced tying knots with his dad, making them strong, just like their bond.

Every day, Budi woke up early to practice what he learned. He watched seagulls fly and tried to be as graceful.

With his dad's help, he got better and better at sailing.

One day, a big storm came. The sky turned dark, and the sea was rough. Budi and his dad went on their boat, facing the storm together.

Budi held the wheel tight, using what he learned from his dad. They worked together, sailing through the storm bravely.

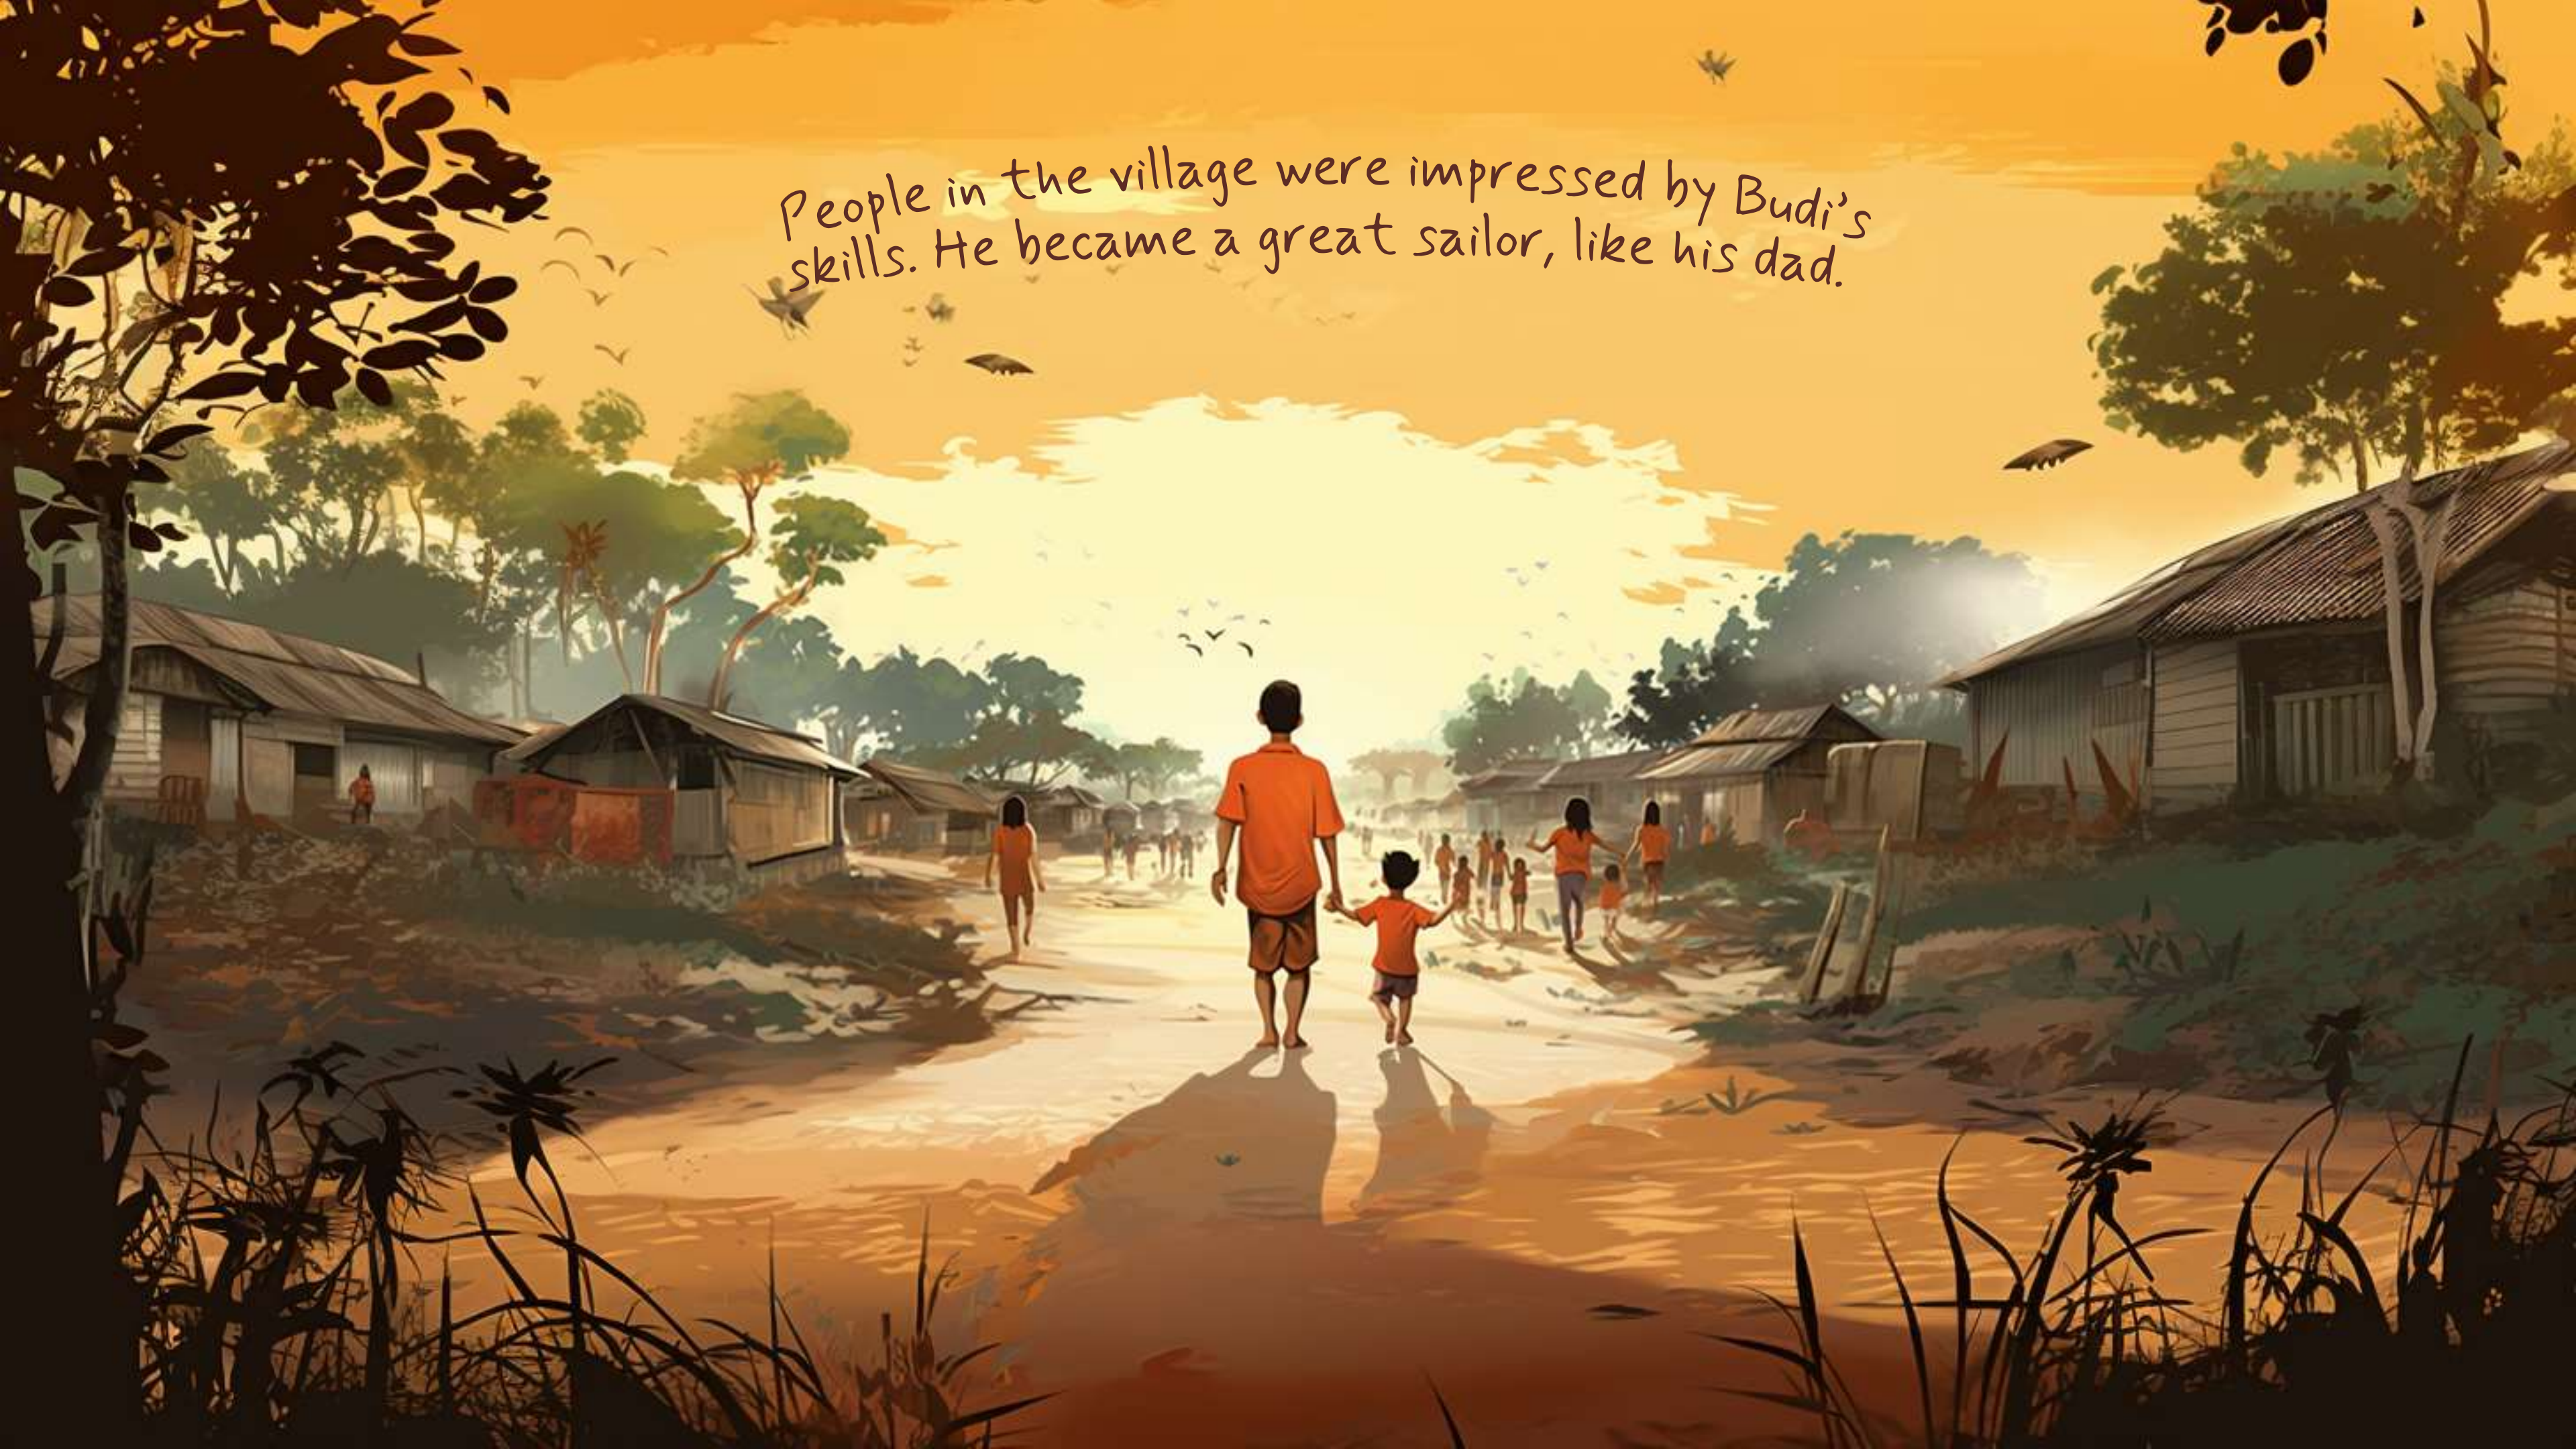

When the storm calmed, Budi's dad smiled. "You've learned well," he said. Budi felt proud and thankful for his dad's teachings.

In a calm bay, they met a friendly dolphin. Budi's dad showed him how to swim smoothly with the dolphin. Budi realized that learning from his dad was special and made him a good sailor.

People in the village were impressed by Budi's skills. He became a great sailor, like his dad.

Budi never forgot the things he learned from the sea and from his wise dad.
